General Comment

To the Dept. of Labor:

I am a 69 year old retired person and have been trading options for nearly two years. I subscribe to an investment publication and have learned through them and my broker how to trade options. Trading options can and has reduced my risk in both my IRA and individual account. This has not only provided me with extra income in my regular account, but has also grown my retirement account. Please leave all rules and regulations alone as they help millions of people. They also provide extra taxes to the government, something we know is needed.
